Hi s 9(2)(a)

This number, s 9(2)(a) was set up some time ago for calling into 111 from overseas.

Please advise OP Exploration partners that this is the emergency number to call if using a Satellite phone. Please update any documents you have with this number too. If callers are using a New Zealand Landline or cell phone 111 is still the emergency services number to call.

Thanks s 9(2)(a) - the problem is that 111 doesn't work over the sat phone network - this is the reason why the +64 number was introduced

Could have a think please?

Hi s 9(2)(a)

I've updated my details at the end of this form -- If you hold the word document please update it.

s 9(2)(a) for emergencies (including "other emergencies") 111 is the number to ring. If it is not urgent (i.e. not an emergency) but a Police response is required dial s 9(2)(a). This number will be answered by a call taker in the police Communications Centre.

Hi guys just a quick couple of questions please

- Is the attached the latest copy of the police mobilisation plan please?
- The s 9(2)(a) number in plan is to enable the offshore operator to call the emergency services -- could they use this number for other emergency's as they would via the 111 system or is it just for IMG's

Cheers

Hi s 9(2)(a), Stuart and Josh – thanks for coming to TOGS this week and although we didn't have much time to talk it was great to see you there.

TOGS was an idea of mine and is chaired by the local Taranaki Police Commander. We meet either quarterly or every 6 months and we have been going for about 2 years. Meetings are normally in New Plymouth and we normally have a guest speaker. I have attached the groups terms of reference (2 pages!) for your information and I think it would be certainly beneficial if s 9(2)(a) or one of the team attended when we met.

Josh apart from hearing you love your skiing like I do we haven't had a chance to formally meet and I was wondering if we could grab a coffee and a catch up the next time I am in town?

Afternoon,

I just wanted to personally email you and let you know I have resigned from my current role here at NZP&M. My last working day is 15 December, but I will be out of the office from next Thursday, although still contactable on my mobile while completing a handover. Someone will no doubt be in touch to let you know of the time and location of some leaving beverages for those of you in Wellington!

At this stage I have no plans for my next career steps, but very much looking forward to a very relaxing break before considering options in the New Year – please feel free to get in touch if you hear of anything you think suitable. Hope you stay in touch and I have the opportunity to work with you again in the future.

Subject: Offshore Petroleum activity and non-interference provisions. [UNCLASSIFIED]

Good Morning,

As part of preparing the All of Government for the upcoming offshore petroleum activity this summer, there is an office based simulation exercise planned for the 17th December, 12-3pm at Police Headquarters, Molesworth Street, Wellington.

We would like to extend the invite to you, in order to assist your knowledge about how the Government will coordinate and respond in an event and to test the communication channels between industry and government.

The intent is for participants to practice using the tools they would if an actual incident occurred, to ensure we can collectively communicate and record our decisions and actions efficiently.

This will mean people should have access to:

- their business as usual tools (If they have remote access devices that can be brought to PNHQ it would assist) to receive and send information as they usually would; and
- RIOD (For those who have been provided access) on Police Enterprise devices that Police use.

Those requiring access to their agency/company databases will hopefully have their own mobility/remote access devices to achieve this. Reception via 3G/4G is usually good on level 3 however Police have a limited ability to provide ADSL connection if required. Police Wi fi is not accessible to non-police. If a participant requires an ADSL connection could they please advise me early.

Due to the location, there is a restriction on the numbers who can attend, hence the limited invite list. Please let me know if you are not able to attend.

Kind Regards

Hi Josh great catching up briefly over the past couple of days.

We have been including yourself on these weekly situation reports and wondered if we might be able to send you a proposal to join with the rest of the industry and officially receive the information?

The reports can go to as many people as you think would benefit from it from within MBIE and would help provide constant situational awareness.

I'll flick a proposal out over the holiday period and look perhaps to get you on board around the beginning of Feb.

Have a great break over the holidays and see you in the new year.

Cheers

Hi Josh great catching up this week and as discussed please see below a copy of our situation report that we publish weekly for the industry.

We would love to get you guys on board with this service which involves 24x7 monitoring from open sources and our networks plus several other services.

I'll flick these to you over the next couple of weeks and if you think MBIE may be interested I'll flick you a proposal.

I might drop down to Wellington on Monday night as I understand s 9(2)(a) might be in town and a dinner being on offer.

Have a good weekend

Hi Ilana, I got your details from Josh and our relationship through the oil and gas industry and work we have completed with him and the Minerals and Exploration Joint Intelligence Group (MEJIG)

We provide a very discreet service to organisations who are affected by issue motivated groups and trying to get in contact with 3 Australian firms with not much luck.

I was wondering if you could point me in the correct direction for the following please?

- Newcrest
- New Talisman
- Evolution Mining

We have also worked in the past for s 9(2)(b)(ii) so have a good understanding with regards to mining and IMG's.

Thanks and speak soon

The group arrived at around 11am, crossing the marked worksite boundary (supplied)

Coromandel conservation group Protect Karangahake has staged another protest at Newcrest Mining Ltd's gold exploration drilling rig on the side of Mt Karangahake, temporarily shutting down the drill.

The group arrived at around 11am, crossing the marked worksite boundary. Newcrest says the drill rig was immediately shut down for the safety of the drilling team and the protesters.

Police were called and issued five of the protesters with trespass notices. The group left the site about two hours after arriving, at which time drilling started up again.

Protect Karangahake chairman Duncan Shearer says the group wants to protect the mountain from mining "however necessary".

"Karangahake is a precious ecological corridor and a visitor hotspot. Each year locals and tens of thousands of visitors come here to enjoy the regenerating native flora and fauna, and we think that is worth protecting."

Mr Shearer says the "growing tourism industry" would sustain the local community and economy far better than mining.

"We realised that letting them sample is the start of a slippery slope, potentially leading to full-scale mining and all the contamination and degradation that comes with it," he says.

A Newcrest spokesperson says district permits and landowner permission is sought before any work commences.

"Environmental management plans are developed to identify and outline controls to prevent potential environmental impacts during the establishment of the drill site and during drilling activity.

"All drill sites will be fully rehabilitated once drilling has been completed."

Last Tuesday, the same group protested outside the site and delivered a letter to the mining company, which is based in Australia.

Newcrest is one of the world's largest gold mining companies, with mines in Australia, Papua New Guinea, Indonesia and West Africa.

The current drill site is on two exploration areas -- Waitekauri and Owaharoa -- under current permits issued by the New Zealand Government.

More kick ass action from Protect Karangahake today - using peaceful civil disobedience to shut down a drilling rig. Quite appropriate on the last day of #breakfree2016 as gold mining is a huge fossil fuel user, producing 10,000 tonnes of CO2 per ton of gold produced!

More dedicated members of our community were up on the drilling rig today standing up for our precious mountain and ecology. They shut down the drill until Newcrest Mining called the police, and five of our members were trespassed by police off the land for two years. We understand we were on private land but this drilling rig is right
